Democrats Getting Busy.

The Democratic County Campaign Committee met Tuesday afternoon with Chairman R. K. McCarney presiding. Reports were received from those in charge of the poll of the city, which is progressing and will be completed by the end of the week. A finance committee was appointed to solicit funds, which is needed to get out every vote in the county on election day.

A resolution was adopted calling upon each member of the Democratic County Executive Committee to see that his particular precinct was polled as soon as possible and to make early report to the Committee.

A call was issued by the committee to the Democrats of the county to assemble at the court house this (Friday) evening at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of forming a Bryan and Kern club, and to whom up the campaign in general. A telegram was ordered sent to the Speakers Bureau of the State Campaign Committee asking that a speaker of prominence be assigned to speak here on October 5th, county court day. The committee then adjourned to meet upon call of Chairman McCarney.

Hon. Ben Johnson, Chairman of the Democratic State Campaign Committee, has appointed Mr. H. S. Caywood, Chairman of the Bourbon County Campaign Committee, and Mr. Caywood is actively at work perfecting the organization. He has appointed the following excellent committees for the different precincts of the county:

Henry S. Caywood, Chairman, North Middletown, Ky.
E. F. Rash, Vice Chairman, Paris, Ky.

Executive Committee.—Denis Dundon, John T. Hinton, A. S. Thompson, Claude M. Thomas, N. C. Fisher.

North Middletown No. 1.—Dr. John A. Gilkey, John J. Redmon, J. C. C. Clarke.

North Middletown No. 2.—J. Hal Woodford, Frank Bedford, Gano Hildreth.

THEATRICAL.

A TREAT IN VAUDEVILLE.

In the near future Paris theatre-goers are to be treated to something extraordinary in vaudeville. Messrs. McMahon & Jackson, managers of the Paris Grand are arranging for a three-nights' engagement of all-featured acts in vaudeville, something that has never before been seen in this city. The program will include some of the leading artists on the vaudeville stage, which are to be secured direct from Keith's New York circuit and also from the Orpheum circuit, and the six high-class acts to be presented will be entirely new to the people of Paris. The engagement will probably open the fifth of October.

"A STUBBORN CINDERELLA."

"A Stubborn Cinderella," the latest musical comedy and tremendous success will be the attraction at the Lexington Opera House Monday and Tuesday and Tuesday matinee. The production comes direct from the Princess Theatre, Chicago, where it had its triumphant opening last May and is now in its eighth month of the biggest success Chicago has ever had. No recent years have seen a musical comedy which has made such a positive hit as "A Stubborn Cinderella," it not only having opened Chicago's newest and best theatre but every dramatic critic was loud in their praises and predicted years of prosperity for Hough, Adams and Howard's latest success. "A Stubborn Cinderella" was produced by Mort B. Singer and the Princess Amusement Company and is the largest musical production ever sent out of Chicago, it having a cast of eighty people and a production that cost nearly $75,000. The scenery and costumes are gorgeous and the fifty show girls are beautifully arrayed during the entire play. There are eighty people in the cast, among them Homer B. Mason and Marguerite Keeler, headliners in the Orpheum show last year; the Dovey, Grace Edmond, as the prima donna, Jack Raffael, Harry Pauli, Frederick Starr, Lincoln Plummer, Claire Noelke and Richard Kent.

"I Gave My Dollar, Did You?"

"I gave my dollar, did you?" This is the inscription on the new Bryan button.

Swift Champ, editor of the Bourbon News, yesterday received from Col. M. C. Wetmore, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Democratic National Campaign, a shipment of new Bryan buttons. The buttons are intended for dollar contributors to the national campaign fund. The buttons are being utilized by Democratic newspaper all over the country and Col. Wetmore says they should be subscribed for by dollar contributions in Kentucky.

A supply is now on hand at The News office and all persons who contribute one dollar or more to the campaign funds can get one of these buttons.

Democrats should be so encouraged by the recent developments of the national campaign that they should be eager to give money to the fund. Confidence that Bryan will be the next President has reached every State in the Union and now Republican newspapers are beginning to concede the defeat of the Republicans at the polls.

Attention, Democrats.

There will be a mass meeting of Democrats at the court house in this city to-night, Sept. 25, at 7:30 p. m., for the purpose of organizing a Bryan and Kern Club. The presence of all Democrats is earnestly desired.

Female Vagrants.

Judge Denis Dundon in the last few days has sentenced four female vagrants to the work house. They are the sort that go on the principle of "Never Work Nor, Never Will." However, they were sentenced to mow the court house lawn yesterday and when this is done Supt. Thomas McGinley will see to it that they make little rocks out of big ones out at the workhouse in East Paris. They are from both Clayville and Ruckerville and we understand there are more to follow. The ones now in the toils are: Mary Eliza Trimmings, fined $25 and costs for carrying up a sister and given ten days in jail on vagrancy charge. Susie Miller, vagrancy, 15 days in the workhouse. Carrie Fisher, vagrancy, 20 days. Sarah Maxberry, 10 days.

Natural Gas Question.

In an interview with President Stuart, of Winchester, of the Kentucky Natural Gas Company, the News man was informed that the gas company is anxious to law mains to this city. The only thing they want Paris to do is to give the company the same kind of franchise as is given them by the city of Mt. Sterling. Mr. Stuart says that they now are putting in about $100,000 worth of machinery to make their plant complete; that it has been demonstrated that the three wells of his company can supply 100,000 people all the gas they can use for one hundred years.

Now if there is one thing above all others that the Paris Commercial Club should go after it is this natural gas. Think of it. Winchester people pay 25 cents per thousand for gas and Paris people paying $1.50 for same amount. Natural gas in Paris would be of more benefit to the citizens of this community than anything else we know of. From our conversation with President Stuart we feel that if the Paris Commercial Club will take this matter up at once, the results will be forthcoming in a short time.

Will Close Saturday.

Tomorrow being a Jewish holiday Dan Cohen's shoe store will be closed until 6 p. m.

N. C. Fisher Withdraws.

To the Democrats of the Fourteenth Circuit Court District:

After a consultation with a number of friends in the District and acting upon their judgment as well as my own, I have come to the conclusion that I cannot win the nomination for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney and have therefore decided to withdraw from the race.

I take this opportunity to thank my friends for their support and services to me and to express the hope that time will afford me an occasion to show my gratitude to them. As to those who have given "aid and comfort" to my opponents I have no feelings of ill will. I have no enemies and no vengeance to seek.

I will do all I can to secure the election of the nominee.

Very respectfully,
N. C. FISHER.

DR. RUTHERFORD'S LIFE CONSECRATED TO WORK

Loving Tribute Paid to the Memory of Faithful and Aged Minister.

[From Lexington Herald Sept. 7, 1908]

On the afternoon of July 30, 1908, in Paris, Ky., where for twenty-seven years he had given the best service of his useful and honored life, in the midst of a loyal, loving people, surrounded by his loved ones and that large circle of grief-stricken friends who embraced the entire population of the city, Rev. Edwin Hubbard Rutherford, D. D., "fell on sleep," sustained to the last by the blessed hope of a glorious immortality beyond the grave.

HIS EDUCATIONAL EQUIPMENT.

His early education was received in the parochial school at Brownsville under the tutelage of Rev. Dr. Slack, a distinguished educator of his day, and his son-in-law, who was at the same time pastor of the Presbyterian church. While at this school he united with the church and at the same time announced his intention to study for the ministry.

Having completed the prescribed course at Brownsville, he entered Hanover College, Indiana, from which institution he was graduated in 1854.

His theological education was received at the Danville Theological Seminary in Kentucky under such men as Drs. R. J. Breckinridge, Humphrey and Stuart Robinson. From this institution he was graduated in 1857.

LICENSED BY THE PRESBYTERY

Returning to his home at Brownsville after one year at the Seminary, he was licensed by the Presbytery of Middle Tennessee.

In June of 1857 he was called to the church at Vicksburg, Miss., where he was duly installed the following October.

On December 16, 1858, he was married to Miss Janie R. Young, third daughter of the late Rev. John C. Young, D. D., for many years the distinguished president of Centre College.

His pastorate at Vicksburg was a most trying one in many respects, and it was there, as a young minister, in the days that tested men's faith and fortitude, that those qualities of heart and soul which in after years become so characteristic of the man, were first called forth.

PASTOR DURING THE SIEGE.

During the siege of Vicksburg, as pastor of the church and under the appointment of the General Assembly, through the sixteen months of the bombardment, he labored lovingly and tenderly among the soldiers.

After the surrender he went with the paroled soldiers to Parole Camp at Enterprise, Miss., where faithfully and efficiently he ministered to them until the close of the war, when he returned to Vicksburg and resumed his pastoral duties. During all this period of terrific trial his devoted wife was with him and according to his own statement was his wisest counselor.

From Vicksburg he was called to the Tabb street church, Petersburg, Va. He was installed there as pastor in September, 1866.

In November, 1872, he was called to the Pine street Presbyterian church of St. Louis (now Grand avenue church), which church he served under the conspicuous blessing of God until the spring of 1881, when he accepted the call to the Second Presbyterian church of Paris, Ky., where, until a few months before his death in full possession of splendid powers of body and mind, he labored with a zeal that was untiring, a love that excluded none, and with an influence that broadened with his ripe years and richer experience of God's saving grace until it is probable that not only within the limits of Bourbon county's beautiful capital, but within the limits of the county itself, there was scarce a family which had not felt the influence of his remarkable personality.

As a man Dr. Rutherford possessed attributes that have ever made men great. He was a man of wonderful self-control, an attainment without which no man is ever symmetrically great.

While those who knew him doubtless could never associate him with any vocation other than that of the ministry, still his gifts were such as to have assured for him conspicuous success in almost any field of activity.

He was painstaking and precise to a degree that was remarkable. His leniency in his judgment of others was proverbial. The rules by which he governed himself were inexorable. He was never heard to criticize. He seemed to find something admirable in all. His manners were of the old school and were superb. His attitude toward all mankind was unchanging.

His intercourse with all those associated with him in any business capacity was characterized by the same gentle, dignified courtesy which won for him the distinction of being the Chesterfield of the Synod of Kentucky. In the opinion of the writer a much wider range of territory might have been as easily and as truthfully employed. For gentleness, grace and dignity of manner he was "facile princeps" in any company.

HIS DIGNITY AND AMIABILITY.

I can conceive of no higher testimony to the courteous dignity and amiability of the innate gentleman than that given by two servants who had been constantly employed in the family for eleven and sixteen years, respectively. Each said:

"I have never received from him a cross word or look during all these years I have lived with him." Their grief at his death was undisguised and unmistakable.

He was the friend of all the children. They were all of them, his friends in the truest sense. One dear little three-year-old girl by whose house he had passed constantly during her short life and whose little heart he had won, upon hearing that he was dead said to her mother: "Mother, I wish God would make another Dr. Rutherford."

ACTING MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION.

The proclamation of the Acting Mayor of Paris to its citizens, which is here reproduced, beautifully and touchingly exalts him as a man.

"To the People of Paris:—It is with profound sorrow that I announce the death of Dr. E. H. Rutherford. His long and kindly ministrations, not only to members of his own congregation but to all of every creed and to those of no creed, are well known to those of this community.

"A kindly, sympathetic, generous gentleman, whose faith was unflinching and whose good works were continuous unto the end, has passed beyond our ken. It is fitting that we should pause and reflect upon the effect such a life has been upon the lives and fortunes of those who follow.

"I, therefore, as Acting Mayor of the city of Paris, request that all places of business be closed during the hours from 10 to 12 o'clock a. m. out of respect to the memory of this good man."

The further fact that the saloon men of Paris by a voluntary and unanimous agreement of their own closed their doors from 11 to 2 o'clock on the day of his funeral was a tribute unique probably in the history of America—a tribute not to Dr. Rutherford, the pastor and preacher, but to the man who had walked their streets and in whom they had recognized the ideal man.

It was however, as a preacher of the Word and an under shepherd of the flock, that he was most widely and favorably known. In the pulpit he was "a workman who needed not to be ashamed." God had richly endowed him. He was "thoroughly furnished." His was a pleasing personality. His face was strong, his expression mild, his voice was clear and musical, his language was chaste, his vocabulary truly remarkable.

God had endowed him with a wonderful memory. His preaching was largely memoriter. In his early ministry he wrote his sermons fully and carefully. He was wont to say, "I can think best at the end of my pen." Nevertheless, he spoke under necessity extemporaneously and was fluent. He was more; on such occasions he was sometimes truly eloquent.

He read much, he read only the best. He imitated on the great. He possessed a splendid library. His mind was a well-filled treasury. He was not a great talker; he was a good questioner, an excellent listener.

In his own pulpit, he confessed, he was at his best. His sermons were messages from God to poor sinners. Grace was his central theme. His ministry, like his Master's was one of "beseachings." He exalted Christ. He reached the hearts of men.

His prayers went hot from the heart and straight to the throne of grace. He talked with God and led his congregations to "the mercy seat." He had power in prayer with God and man.

He honored the Word in quoting it accurately. He used the loving words of the living Lord in making his petition known. The memory of his prayers shall abide as a benediction upon those who were led by him.

As a pastor Dr. Rutherford had few

Household Hints.

Scalding hot milk will remove stains from linen and cotton more effectively than boiling water.
Rugs dulled by dust and usage can be cleaned to look like new by rubbing with half rye and half wheat bread. They should be well swept after the bread is rubbed into them.

Small mats of different sizes cut from oilcloth are most convenient for a sickroom to set glasses and dishes upon and to prevent staining and soiling of table covers. The mats can be neatly planked around the edge.

Many a piece of old barecloth furniture can be made most attractive if covered with pretty chintz or cretonne. With these coverings one can have hangings to match. Nothing adds more to a room than its draperies.

Base Hits.

Bob Emslie is the most unfortunate umpire that ever lived so far as being injured while on duty is concerned.

There never was a twirler so successful in the minors and so unsuccessful in the big league as the big side wheeler Doc Newton.

Umpire Jack Sheridan is in favor of the double system. He works less alone than any other member of President Johnson's American league staff.

Jack McCloskey, who has been a rubber for the Harvard football, hockey and baseball teams, has been appointed trainer of the Boston Nationals.

Catcher Jack McLean of the Cincinnati Nationals has taken to shin guards. With Waddell, Bailey and Graham the St. Louis Americans are rather long on south paws.

College and School.

Housework and marketing are taught in the public schools for girls in Belgium.

Professor Oswald Redlich of Vienna university has accepted an invitation to lecture at Harvard in the spring of 1909.

The present educational policy of the Chinese empire includes the eviction of Buddhist monks from their monasteries in order to secure school buildings.

Jane Addams, Dr. Cornelia De Bey and Mrs. Emmons Blaine have all been dropped from the Chicago school board by Mayor Busse. He has, however, appointed two women—Mrs. Isabel O'Keefe and Mrs. Evelyn Frake.

Bible Measures.

An omer was six pints.
A ephah was three pints.
A firkin was seven pints.
A bin was one gallon and two pints.
A cubit was nearly twenty-two inches.
A Sabbath day's journey was about an English mile.
An ephah, or bath, contains seven gallons and five pints.
A day's journey was about twenty-three and one-fifth miles.
A hand's breadth is equal to three and five-eighths inches. A finger's breadth is equal to one inch.

Undesirables.

The Chinese and Japanese are not the only ones excluded by the United States government. Birds, like the English sparrow and the sterling, find the ports shut to them. So do rabbits, the mongoose and the flying fox.

The Human Ear.

Experts tell us that in all the world you will not find a perfect human ear.

Yarn.

In the United States "right hand" yarn is yarn of which the twist slopes up to the right similar to the threads of an ordinary right hand screw. Germans call this "left hand" yarn for the reason that if held in the hand it has to be twisted to the left to twist it together, whereas twisting to the right unwinds it.

Twain's Emancipation.

An honorary degree was once conferred on Mark Twain by a humble institution in a Missouri town that had known him when he was playing Tom Sawyer there in real life.

It happened that the degree conferring ceremonies took place one lazy day in June when newspapers generally were suffering from a total collapse of everything in the way of news.

One New York news editor raked the land with a figurative fine tooth comb and got a dry haul for his pains. Then, recalling that Mark Twain was getting his honorary degree that very day, it occurred to him that a message direct from the famous author might relieve the situation in the news. After much scratching of the editorial idea factory he evolved this query, which was transmitted to Mark Twain by wire:

How does it feel to be a doctor of laws? Please wire answer at our expense.

After a wait of several hours this characteristic response came hot over the wire from Missouri:

It feels like emancipation from ignorance and vice. MARK TWAIN.

Riding a Camel in the Desert.

Dr. Nachtigal, the celebrated African explorer, was the guest of a rich Hamburg merchant. The merchant's son, a young man of a somewhat sentimental temperament, said among other things that his dearest wish was to ride across the desert on the back of a camel. He thought such a ride must be very poetical indeed.

"My dear young friend," replied the explorer, "I can tell you how you can get a partial idea of what riding a camel on the deserts of Africa is like. Take an office stool, screw it up as high as possible and put it in a wagon without any springs. Then seat yourself on the stool and have it driven over rocky and uneven ground during the hottest weather of July or August and after you have not had anything to eat or drink for twenty-four hours, and then you will get a faint idea of how delightfully poetic it is to ride on a camel in the wilds of Africa."

He Gave Her a Present.

When I was a young man Lady Jersey was one of the leaders of fashion, and her house was the resort of politicians and others. With her lived her daughter, Lady Clementine Villiers, a handsome and clever girl. The custom had been established that all friends should give the latter a present on her birthday, and these presents were set out in an ante-chamber. Among these friends was Lord Brougham, then an old man. He called on a birthday, but had forgotten what the occasion was, and had brought no present. Seeing a mass of presents laid out, he seized one of them and took it in as his present, rightly counting that the young lady would not remember that it was one that already had been given to her. And very proud he was of his presence of mind. But, then, he was an ex-lord chancellor.—London Truth.

Many Languages of Mexico.

During the festa of Christmas or the week of All Souls and All Saints, when the Indians swarm down from the mountains with their holiday wares for sale, visitors in the City of Mexico may notice the strange language that the vendors use in addressing each other. Even when they turn to serve the purchaser their Spanish is neither Castilian nor Mexican, but is frequently broken by peculiar syllables and accents. This is merely an illustration of the fact that the Indian languages of old Mexico have not been entirely submerged by the conquering Spanish, and in some of the most remote districts of the republic various and distinct languages handed down from the pre-Columbian era are still spoken in their pristine purity by many tribe members.—Mexican Herald.

Easy House Moving.

House moving is an easy task among the Lakas, a tribe living near the Lagone river, in the French Congo, Africa. This tribe, which is one of the most superb examples of the savage black race, lives in conical shaped huts constructed of plaited straw. When a change in location is desired, both the women and the men put their shoulders to the task and carry the roofs of their homes to the new site, sometimes many miles distant. The circular walls of the huts are rebuilt.

Who Whips?

The clergyman's little son was telling the small son of a parishioner of the dreadful fights which he and his sister indulged in.

"You don't mean to say that ministers' children fight?" replied the horrified little layman.

"Oh, yes."
"Who whips?"
"Mamma."—Exchange.

A Sure Test.

The schoolmaster put to his class the question: "Two jars of gas, one containing nitrogen and one carbon dioxide, are given. How may the gases be discriminated?"

One eager little pupil said: "Get a man, and let him take a deep breath of both. When he gets the carbon dioxide he'll die. That's the way to tell."

His Status.

"Is that ex-New Yorker who likes London so well a naturalized Englishman?"

"No," answered Miss Cayenne, "merely a denatured American."

His Only Chance.

Mother (crossly)—Tommy, haven't I told you you must not talk when I am talking? Tommy—But, mamma, you won't let me stay up after you go to bed!—Sketch.

A FAMOUS REMEDY

"I cured MY cough with German Syrup!"
He wrote to Dr. G. G. Green:
"As true as I tell you, doctor dear, I'm feelin' finer than ever I've been!"

The poor consumptive should not be the victim of experiment, as he often is, but the moment the dread disease manifests its presence he should be given Boschee's German Syrup—a pure, non-alcoholic medicine that is made specially for the cure of consumption, and has a worldwide fame as a certain remedy for catarrh, colds, coughs, croup, sore throat and all bronchial affections in old and young. It is sold in all civilized countries, and has been famous as a consumption cure for almost half a century.

Livingstone.

Livingstone died April 20, 1873, at Chitamba's village, on the Lullumala, in Malawi. His body was carried by his faithful servants to Zanzibar, from which point it was taken to England and borne with all honors to its last resting place in Westminster abbey.

Well Proportioned Men.

In a well proportioned man the distance between the tips of the middle fingers when the arms are stretched out laterally should be equal to the length of his body.

Turks and Coffee.

The Turks have a theory that coffee makes muscle and are therefore great coffee drinkers.

Posters.

Posters took their name from the fact that in former times the footways of London streets were separated from the drives by a line of posts on which advertisements were displayed.

Mascots.

Mascots have had their place in the world for many generations. Cats, as with the ancient Egyptians; grasshoppers, as in Italy, and various other specimens of animal life have in their time been counted as sacred or lucky by different peoples.

Peanuts.

Arachides, or peanuts, are imported into France from east Africa, the British and Dutch East Indies, Argentina, Algeria, Senegal, Australia and the United States. Those imported as nuts in the shell yield edible oil, while de-oiled peanut kernels produce inferior grades of oil, which are used mainly for soapmaking.

The Eastern Kentucky State Normal Opened on Schedule Time.

At a meeting of the Regents of the three higher institutions of learning of the State held in Lexington, August 25, it was unanimously resolved to open all the State schools on scheduled time. This has been done and the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School at Richmond is now in full operation with an increased attendance in all departments over last fall. Pupils that have been hesitating on account of the rumor that went abroad on account of a possibility of the school not opening this fall, need hesitate no longer. All departments at Richmond are in full running order and these are ample boarding accommodations for all students of both sexes.
R. N. ROARK, President.

Bryan Throws Down the Gauntlet

William J. Bryan sent a telegram from Detroit Tuesday to President Roosevelt, in which he challenged him to produce proof of the charges against Gov. Haskell, of Oklahoma, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee. Mr. Bryan serves notice on the President that, as the candidate of the Democratic party, "I shall not permit any responsible member of the Republican organization to misrepresent the Democratic party in the present campaign." The telegram concludes with the statement that the Democratic party is making an honest and honorable fight in defense of its principles and policies and expects and will demand honorable treatment from those who are in charge of the Republican campaign.

Why the Delay?

But few nominations for Congress, and Presidential electors have been properly certified to the Secretary of State and as it is necessary to do this thirty days before election, the governing bodies of both parties in Kentucky have been asked to attend to the matter.

second successful sale of town lots in this city by this firm.

The lots sold yesterday were bought exclusively by colored people. Fifty-six lots sold from $22.50, the lowest price paid, to $195, the highest. We could not learn the aggregate or average, but know everything was satisfactory to the firm making the sale.

Dan Hart won the first free lot, but was not on the grounds and it then went to William Stevenson. Ples.
Cooper won the second free lot, but not being present it went to Geo. Bur-

Second Murder Here Within a

Week.

Zep Young Current and Tom Carter, two young negroes under 21 years old,
met at the corner of Main and Sixth street, Wednesday night about 8 o'clock, and became involved in a quarrel over baseball, which resulted in Current drawing his knife and stabbing Carter through the heart. The latter uttered a shriek of pain and exclaimed: "You have stabbed me," and ran down Main until opposite the Fordham Hotel, where he fell to the street dead.

He was picked up and carried to the room in the rear of Geo. W. Davis' undertaking establishment, where an autopsy was held by order of coroner Rupolph Davis. The blade of the knife entered below the heart and was driven upward through the heart.

Current was employed as a porter at Link's grocery and is said to bear a bad reputation as a scrapper and knife user.

Carter was employed as driver on the ice wagon that works second street.

After inflicting the fatal stab Current disappeared and has not been captured up to this time.

This is the second negro that has been stabbed to death here seemingly without provocation in less than a week.

BLOOD

We live by our blood, and on it. We thrive or starve, as our blood is rich or poor. There is nothing else to live on or by.

When strength is full and spirits high we are being refreshed—bone, muscle and brain, in body and mind—with continual flow of rich blood. This is health.

When weak, in low spirits, no cheer, no spring, when rest is not rest and sleep is not sleep, we are starved; our blood is poor; there is little nutriment in it.

Back of the blood is food, to keep the blood rich. When it fails, take A Traveling Man's Experience.

"I must tell you my experience on an East bound O. R. & N. R. train from Pendleton to Le Grande, Ore.," writes Sam A. Garber, a well-known traveling man. "I was in the smoking department with some other traveling men when one of them went out into the coach and came back and said 'There is a woman sick unto death in the car.' I at once got up and went out found her very ill with cramp colic her hands and arms were drawn up so you could not straighten them and with a death like look on her face. Two or three ladies were working with her and giving her whiskey. I went to my suit case and got my bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy (I never travel without it), ran to the water tank, put a double dose of the medicine in the glass, poured some water into it and stirred it with a pencil; then I had quite a time to get the ladies to let me give it to her, but I succeeded. I could at once see the effect and I worked with her, rubbing her hands, and in twenty minutes I gave her another dose. By this time we were almost into Le Grande, where I was to leave the train. I gave the bottle to the husband to be used in case another dose should be needed, but by the time the train ran into Le Grande she was all right, and I received the thanks of every passenger in the car." For sale by W. T. Brooks. You need no other guarantee.

Ignorance of South America.

One of our contemporaries referred yesterday to "little Paraguay." That republic is four-fifths as large as Germany.

Many persons have erroneous notions as to geographical sizes and lengths in South America. They have not the slightest idea that Brazil is nearly as large as the whole of Europe, that the distance between the north and south ends of Chile is as great as that between the North Cape of Europe and Gibraltar, and that steamers ply almost straight north and south on the Parana and its Paraguay affluent for a distance about equal to that between New York and Omaha.—New York Sun.

How a Girl Throws.

Perhaps a better title would have been "How a Girl Doesn't Throw," because it is well known that a girl cannot propel a ball or anything else like a boy. Most people—and all boys—conceive that this defect arises from clumsiness, but that is a mistake. The difference between a girl's throwing and a boy's is substantially this: The boy crooks his elbow and reaches back, with the upper part of his arm about at a right angle of forty-five degrees. The direct act of throwing is accomplished by bringing the arm back with a sort of snap, working every joint from shoulder to wrist. The girl throws with her whole arm rigid, the boy with his whole arm relaxed. Why this marked and unmistakable difference exists may be explained by the fact that the clavicle or collar bone in the feminine anatomy is some inches longer and set some degrees lower down than in the masculine frame. The long, crooked, awkward bone interferes with the full and free use of the arm. This is the reason why a girl cannot throw a stone.

First Victory of the Revolution.

The importance of the assault upon Fort William and Mary is generally overlooked by historians. The demonstrations against various British armed vessels, beginning with the firing upon the schooner St. John in July, 1761, as well as the battle of Alamance, in North Carolina, in 1771, were essentially local and were so far removed from the revolutionary period that they produced no appreciable effect upon the war itself. The "Boston massacre" was the repulse of a mob by a squad of British regulars, but at Fort William and Mary the royal standard was lowered for the first time, and the gunpowder taken therefrom was burned by the patriots at Bunker Hill. The king recognized in the daring assault the inevitability of the impending struggle. There is truth in the claim set forth on the tablet on the old Fort Constitution of today that the site marks "the first victory of the American Revolution."—Army and Navy Life.

A Pretty Warm Fish.

A well known fisherman was fishing for perch and was seated along the edge of a lake near the roots of a large tree, which was a favorite spot for the perch. Luck had been only fair, and he was debating on the question of hauling in the line and going home when there came a powerful tug.

He knew that he had a huge fish and struggled vigorously for twenty minutes before he landed his prize. It was a sunfish, one of the largest he had ever seen. He landed it on the bank, and then he noticed that the rays from the fish were so powerful that he was almost blinded, and the grass in the vicinity was shriveled up by the heat.

A few minutes later the man fell over. He had been sunstruck by the sunfish and was beyond hope.—Philadelphia American.

Startling.

A gentleman opened a letter addressed to his son containing suggestions from a friend to the latter for a novel which he (the son) was privately writing. The father was exceedingly surprised and frightened upon reading the following dreadful words:

Dear Dad—You really must show more caution in constructing your plots, or the governor will be sure to discover the dead body of Geraldine in the cellar, and then your secret will be out. You certainly think you are giving it him in rather large doses. Let Emily put her mother in a madhouse. It will answer your purpose well to have the old girl out of the way. I think your forgery is far too small a sum. Make it three thousand. Leave the rest of your particularly nice family circle to me. I will finish them off and send you back the "fatal dagger" afterward by post. Yours, JACK.

—London Express.

Burning Heretics.

The following items, copied from the municipal records of Canterbury by an English magazine, show that the burning of heretics in 1535, the time of the saint King Henry VIII, was an inexpensive amusement:

To bringing a heretic from London	14s. 8d.
For wood to burn him	2s. 6d.
For gunpowder	1d.
A stake and staple	6d.
Total	17s. 6d.

Inspiring Hope.

The Doctor—Bear up. I must tell you the worst—you can't possibly recover. The Client—That's a pity, for if I'd lived a bit longer I should have come into a fortune. As it is, I haven't a penny to pay you with, doctor. The Doctor—Well, now, don't give up hope. We'll try to mend you. We'll try.—Illustrated Bits.

As to Stage Fright.

"Stage fright" is surely among the most mysterious of sudden seizures. It begins when the actor or speaker thinks "they are not interested in me." It ends when he determines "I will interest them."—London Chronicle.

The Modern Child.

Little Girl of Four (standing entranced before the window of a toy shop)—Oh, mother, if you was my little girl, wouldn't I take you in and buy you some of these lovely things!—London Tatler.

Her Preference.

"I want to make a gift to Miss Passy," said Dunley. "I wonder what sort of animal she'd prefer for a pet?" "A man," promptly suggested Miss Knox.—Philadelphia Press.

The only real thing is to study how to rid life of lamentation and complaint.—Epictetus.

A Famous Poison Mystery.

England had a famous poison mystery in the last century. Two members of a great club in Manchester, both men of position and keen politicians, each received, apparently as a New Year's gift, small boxes containing a few cigars of the very highest quality apparently. Both were taken fearfully ill after smoking, and one of them subsequently died. The cigars were found to be loaded with poison, and it was said that the man who recovered only did so because he used a cigar holder. The facts were at first hushed up, because, as was said, the suspected sender, whose motive was revenge on account of a lady, was a man of wealth and power. But this subject was cleared, and the mystery was deepened by the following circumstances: A rich Manchester merchant, traveling one day in a railway car about the time of the incident related, got into conversation with a most agreeable and highly cultivated stranger, who finally offered him a cigar case. The Manchester man was found at Leeds almost unconscious and the only occupant of the carriage. He grasped in one of his convulsed hands the cigar he had been smoking, and after analysis showed it to be identical with the others. He recovered, but the stranger was never discovered.

Easy Way to Be Generous.

In a church of a New England village was an old man who had all the Christian graces save one, and that was the grace of liberality. He would do anything in the world for the cause of religion but give up his money. At the close of the financial year 1860 the church found itself $400 in debt. A church meeting was called, and it was voted to circulate a subscription paper on the spot and endeavor to thus raise the sum needed. This was done, and the old gentleman did not put his name on the paper. The result was rather disheartening, $200 only having been pledged. Silence reigned for a moment, when one of the most generous men in the church moved that "we double our subscriptions." Instantly the old gentleman was on his feet and with extraordinary fervor cried, "I second the motion."

He evidently felt that he was thus doing his part in hastening a most desirable result.

Would Follow His Example.

After the battle of Prestopans a witty Scottish farmer amused himself by writing a ballad upon it, which so stung one of the English officers, who had behaved very basely on the occasion, that he sent the poet a challenge to meet him at H. for mortal combat.

The second found the farmer busy with his hayfork and at once delivered the challenge of the redoubtable hero. The good natured farmer, turning toward him with the agricultural implement, coolly said:

"Gang awa' back to Mester Smith and tell him I hae nae time to come to H. to gie him satisfaction, but that if he likes to come here I'll tak' a look at him, and if I think I can fecht (fight) him I'll fecht him, and if I think I canna fecht him I'll just do as he did—I'll run away."

His Inspiration.

The negro brass band connected with the traveling troupe was blating a tune in its characteristic slap bang style in front of the theater when a dusky cornet player who had been sulking all day suddenly quit blowing and did not resume.

"Say, Mose," demanded the leader in the ensuing pause, "ain't yo' workin' any mo'?"

"Ah is w'en Ah gits de inspiration," retorted the sulky musician, throwing the whites of his eyes across at the leader.

"W'en am dat?"

"W'en Ah gits mah las' week's pay."—Kansas City Independent.

Conscientious About It.

"Mr. Glizzard," asked the caller, "are you carrying all the life insurance you can afford?"

"No," answered the man at the desk. "I can afford more, and I had expected to take out more, but from a note I got from my employer this morning I have begun to suspect that I'm carrying a good deal more than I am worth."—Chicago Tribune.

Forcing a Success.

"What is the name of your new novel?"

"The Dungeon." Good gloomy title, eh?"

"Yes. That name alone ought to get the book among the six best sellers."—Washington Herald.

Nothing Liberal About It.

Wilkins—I understand you are giving your son a liberal education? Hobbs—Liberal! Not a bit of it! They don't give anything away at the college where he is. I have to pay for every plaguy thing he gets.—Boston Transcript.

Thoughtfulness.

Mr. Sapphedde—I like to be different from other people.

Miss Caustique—That is very considerate of you. I dare say the other people appreciate your thoughtfulness.—Philadelphia Record.

Sarcasm.

He—Look at this infernal bill. You know I can't afford it. Now, I'm going to give you a piece of my mind. She—Are you quite sure you can afford that, papa, dear?—London Opinion.

A Rondeau.

She uses slang at times, I grieve to say. I note the tendency with great dismay. For slang in women is a thing I hate. She thinks, of course, that it is up to date. The proper language of the girl today. But it's bad taste, which girls should not display. When I say that, she says, "Don't get too gay."

"Impertinent" seems quite inadequate. She uses slang. "Nix" is equivalent to "no" or "nay." And things provincial she declares are "jay." Then a small minded person is a "skate." She "hurries?" No; she "hits a lively gallop." Or "beats it." Why, it's simply fierce the way she uses slang!—Chicago News.

Piscatorial Logics.

The patient fisherman baited his hook for the fiftieth time and cast his line confidently into the stream. "Catch anything?" inquired an inquisitive passerby. "Nope," replied the fisherman. "Been here long?" "Bout five hours." "Expect to catch anything?" "Yep." "Doesn't look like a very good fishing stream. What makes you think there's fish in it?" "Cause I haven't taken any out."—Harper's Weekly.

A Modern.

"I met a Helen on the street. Ah, Troy's was ne'er so fair and sweet!" "I saw a Venus in the car—A sun where Venus was a star." "I talked with Pallas yesterday. Those ancient Greeks—what lore had they!" "Lucky discoverer!" cried I. "And passed you all these marvels by?" Aye, for the wife to whom I came Home puts their wit and charms to shame!—Cleveland Leader.

Her Wish.

A Baltimore man tells of receiving a unique note acknowledging a wedding present sent by him on the occasion of the marriage of his chum. "Your lovely etching was received," wrote the bride, "and gives us both pleasure. It is now in the parlor hanging above the piano, where we hope to see you very soon and as often as you find it agreeable."—Harper's Weekly.

After Vacation.

My gloves are all worn at the finger tips. The seams are all strained askew; I cannot number the tiny rips. And of buttons I've lost a few. But I draw them on with a glance of pride—They have served me, oh, long and well—And a hand all unfreckled is safe inside When I peel off the tattered shell. —New York Times.

Unconscious.

"Your friend Woodly left some verses with me today that were very amusing," said the editor. "You don't say! I didn't think he was a humorous poet." "Neither does he."—Houston Post.

What She Kept.

"Summer maiden, ere we part Give, oh, give me back my heart!" "Why, of course," she said, "sure thing. All I care for is the ring."—Los Angeles Times.

A Great Discovery.

"Have you made any important discoveries this year?" "I have," answered the scientific searcher. "I have discovered a new financial backer."—Washington Star.

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic, and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry-bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the fish and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe obstinate, hang-on chronic coughs, bronchial and nervous troubles, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering hang-on coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. F. C. Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Holding a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach). It is a most efficient preparation. (Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood, curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scurfy swellings and old sores, or ulcers. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the natural medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. There's no alcohol in it.

The Remedy That Does.

"Dr. King's New Discovery is the remedy that does the healing, others promise but fail to perform," says Mrs. E. R. Pierson, of Auburn Centre, Pa. "It is curing me of throat and lung trouble of long standing, that other treatments relieve only temporarily. New Discovery is doing me so much good that I feel confident its continued use for a reasonable length of time will restore me to perfect health." This renowned cough and cold remedy and throat and lung healer is sold at Oberdorfer's drug store. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free. sept equality and no superiors. His natural and acquired gifts wonderfully fitted him for shepherding his flock. A personality at once so gentle and so strong, so sympathetic yet so true, so tender yet so unsparing has written its own epitaph in imperishable letters upon the hearts of all who knew him.

He knew his people and sought to help them. They loved him and trusted him in no ordinary way. He was an indefatigable visitor and the limits of his own congregation were by no means the boundary lines which measured the scope of his pastoral visitations. Like his Master whom he served, he went about doing good.

He was the pastor of all who within the circles of an unusually large acquaintance needed help and consolation. In his busy life and loving heart the words of the Master, "Other sheep have I which are not of this fold," were beautifully exemplified.

As the writer went to the church where his body for two days and nights lay in state tenderly guarded during the day by many of the sorrowing women of his congregation and during the night by men who loved him in life and honored him in death, a Chinaman who is a Christian and had sat under his ministry came out of the church and with much emotion in broken English said, "A good man, speak to everybody, love everybody, everybody love him. He say walk this way, he walk that way, he gone to God." How true it was—"he not only pointed to fairer worlds but he led the way."

Those who never knew him in his home, who never enjoyed his unstinted and gracious hospitality are ignorant of that phase of his life which after his sacred calling not only afforded him his greatest pleasure but offered to him an opportunity to display unostentatiously and doubtless unconsciously some of his chiefest charms.

His life was a singularly happy one. After boyhood he had never known a capital sorrow—death had never invaded his own hearthstone. His beautiful wife upon whom he lavished a love that in others might have been counted almost an idolatry was more lovely to him than all the world beside. During the almost fifty years of his married life he was in the truest sense a lover.

Surely no two persons were ever more admirably adapted by nature and grace to each other than they, and surely no two were ever happier, each in the assured affection of the other.

His beloved brother and collaborer in the Lord, Dr. Henry M. Scudder, who had known them intimately during their entire married life in his admirable funeral sermon most appropriately likened their lives to two drops of quicksilver, which, having been brought into juxtaposition, became one drop, indistinguishable and inseparable.

His affectionate regard for her was undying. In his last moments as she tenderly leaned over him to catch his final words, her soul was thrilled with an emotion half of earth and half of Heaven, when in language scarcely audible he connected the two objects that for half a century had been to him an inspiration in his heavenly course and said, "There is a place prepared for me and there is a place prepared for you."

Truly a man both great and good has fallen in our midst. Earth is poorer—heaven is richer.

"Thou has come to thy grave in a full age, like a shock of corn cometh in its season."

Surely we who loved and admired him can sing for him that hallowed psalm:

"By the bright water noy thy lot is cast,
Joy for thee, happy friend; thy bark hath passed
The rough sea's foam,
Now the long yearnings of thy soul are stilled,
Home—home
Thy peace is won, thy heart is filled,
Thou hast gone home."

RUTHERFORD E. DOUGLAS.

Official Call for Primary Election for the 14th Judicial District.

At a meeting of the Democratic District Committee for the 14th Circuit Court District of Kentucky, composed of the counties of Franklin, Scott, Bourbon and Woodford, held at Frankfort, Ky., on Saturday Sept. 12, 1908, it was ordered that a primary election be held, under the primary election law, in the various voting precincts throughout the said Circuit Court District, on Saturday the 14th day of November, 1908, between the hours of six a. m. and four p. m., standard time, for the purpose of selecting Democratic nominees for the offices of Circuit Judge and Commonwealth's Attorney for said District.

In said primary, all known Democrats possessing the statutory qualifications, shall be entitled to vote. In cities and towns where registration is required, the registration used at the last general election preceding this election shall be used in this primary, subject to any additional registration which may be made under section 1555 of the Kentucky Statutes, and the law governing primary elections, in this commonwealth. Anyone possessing qualifications of Circuit Judge and of Commonwealth's Attorney, desiring to become a candidate for either of said respective offices, shall notify the Chairman, John Griffin, and Secretary, F. M. Thomason, in writing, of his purpose and desire so to do, not later than the 30th day of October, 1908, (15 days before the said election). The officers of election for said primary shall be appointed by this, the Democratic Committee of the district, from among the lists to be furnished by the candidates to this Committee, and shall be apportioned among the candidates as nearly equal as can be done. It is the sense of this Committee that the cost of conducting said primary will be in the neighborhood of $1,000 and anyone desiring to become a candidate before said primary, shall deposit with the Secretary of this Committee, at the time he announces his candidacy, a certified check or draft for the sum of $350. For the purpose of assisting this Committee in looking after the details or advertising said primary, a sub-committee, consisting of the Chairman, Secretary and W. O. Davis is hereby appointed, a majority of whom may act. It is further ordered and directed that this Committee, when it adjourns, shall, unless sooner convened, according to law, adjourn to meet at this place on the 2nd day of Nov. 1908, and in the event there is but one announced candidate at that time, for either or both of said offices, to-wit, for Circuit Judge or Commonwealth's Attorney, who have complied with the conditions required, then to declare such announced candidate the Democratic nominee for each office, then to declare said announced candidates the Democratic nominees for said respective offices sought, and at that time to all off said primary, and the amount of money deposited by each candidate shall be refunded to him, less his pro rata part of the necessary expense incurred by the Committee in the preparation to hold said primary. In the event there be but one announced candidate for either of said offices, then the deposit made by said candidate, shall be refunded to him, less his proportion of the expense incurred by that time.

By order of the Democratic Executive Committee of the 14th Judicial District of Kentucky, this Sept. 12, 1908.

J. D. GRIFFIN, Chairman.
F. M. THOMASON, Secretary.

LIVE STOCK AND CROP NOTES

—At Georgetown Monday, a large crowd attended court day. Not many cattle were on the market and they sold cheap. Suckling mules brought from $35 to $100. The horse market was dull.

—The large tobacco barn on the farm of William Bramblett, near Plum Lick, was totally destroyed by fire, together with a lot of farm implements. The loss will reach about $1,500 with an insurance of $1,000.

—Near Versailles the Wakefield-Webber Jersey cattle sale, at W. L. Reynold's farm was well attended. Thirty-two cows averaged $54.65 and four heifers $47.90.

—September court at Mt. Sterling Monday, was attended by a large crowd. There were several thousands cattle on the market. Quality was good, with prices 50 cents off of last court. The best 1,000 pound steers brought 4½ with most sales at 3½ cents. Yearlings at 4 cents; bulk of sales at 3½ cents; heifers from 2½ cents to 3 cents; bulls and old cows, ½ to 2½ cents; cows at 2½ to 3 cents. Henry Lemasters sold thirteen 500-pound heifers to Earl Sellers, of Paris, at $2.80; Chas. Rose sold twenty 1,000 pound steers at $4.10 to a Bourbon county buyer. A. T. Patrick sold thirty 1,050 pound seers to Chas. Meng, of Bourbon at 3½ cents.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR MAGISTRATE.

We are authorized to announce L. J. Fretwell as a candidate for Magistrate in the Paris precinct, subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

We are authorized to announce C. F. Didlake as a candidate for Magistrate of the Paris precinct, subject to the action of the Democratic primary Nov. 11, 1908.

Eclipses.

Long before the Christian era the philosophers of Egypt, Greece and Rome knew far more about eclipses and the cause of them than is known by a large majority of the men of average education at the present day.

The Regent Diamond.

The Regent diamond, probably the most perfect brilliant ever cut, weighs in its present state 136½ carats. The Kohinoor lost in the recutting 82½ carats and now weighs 102½ carats. The Regent was so named from the fact that it was acquired from Louis XV. by the Duke of Orleans, then regent of France.

Ancient Barbers.

Barbers in the early days of the Christian era were not permitted to talk while shaving a patron. Indeed, silence was so much appreciated by persons while under the barber's hands that mutes were preferred for this service.

Marble.

Blasting marble is impracticable, those who quarry it having to split off the blocks in the same method in vogue when the Parthenon was built, more than 2,300 years ago.

Order of the Thistle.

The Order of the Thistle, Scotland's oldest order of knighthood, was originally established in 1540.

Walking Fish.

The peniophthalmus, or walking fish, is found in the south Pacific. At low tide it crawls over the lonely white coral beaches on two shimmering, yellow scaled legs in search of sand crabs.

Our First Duel.

The first duel known to have taken place upon American soil occurred in 1630, when Edward Doty and Edward Leister, servants of a New England colonist named Hopkins, fought over some trifling matter with swords. Neither was seriously injured, but both were severely punished by the provincial authorities.

Flower Colors.

Out of 1,000 flowers 284 are white, 226 are yellow, 220 are red, 141 are blue, 75 are violet, 36 are green, 12 are orange, 4 are brown, and 2 are black, or nearly so.

Malta.

Malta is only seventeen miles in length and nine in breadth.

Macadoub.

One of the most curious of all known phosphorescent larvae is found in British Guiana, near the Brazilian border, where it is known to the natives by the name of macadoub.

The Oldest Map.

E. B. Tylor in his "Early History of Mankind" says that the oldest map known to be in existence is that of the Ethiopian gold mines, dating from the time of Sethos I., the father of Ramesses II., long before the time of the bronze tablet of Aristogoras of Greece.

I Would Be Absolute.

And the first thing I would do in my government, I would have nobody to control me. I would be absolute; and who but I. Now, he that is absolute can do what he likes; he that can do what he likes, can take his pleasure; he that can take his pleasure, can be content; and he that can be content, has no more to desire; so the matter's over.—Cervantes, "Don Quixote."
